This study aims to find out the legal basis for the Tokopedia marketplace's liability for the sale of products resulting from copyright infringement and or trademark rights infringement and to find out the state's efforts in tackling the sale of products resulting from intellectual property rights infringement in the Tokopedia marketplace.

This study uses a normative legal approach carried out by examining secondary data as the main data consisting of primary legal materials, secondary legal materials, and tertiary legal materials. In addition, primary data is used as complementary data obtained through interviews. The collected data were then analyzed descriptively qualitatively by using deductive thinking methods.

The results of this study indicate that the Tokopedia marketplace's liability for the sale of products resulting from copyright infringement is based on Article 114 of Law Number 28 of 2014 concerning Copyrights while the Tokopedia marketplace's liability for the sale of products resulting from copyright or trademark rights infringement is based on Article 1365, Article 1366, and/or Article 1367 paragraph (1) of the Civil Code. The terms and conditions issued by Tokopedia marketplace that rejects claim for liability of intellectual property rights infringement can not avoid Tokopedia marketplace from being held accountable. The state's efforts in tackling the sale of products resulting from intellectual property rights infringement in the Tokopedia marketplace are conducting socialization, dissemination, promotion of intellectual property, and collaborating with the Tokopedia marketplace.
