

Preface

All praise and gratitude to the Lord Jesus Christ for His grace and unwavering love, which have enabled the author to complete this thesis titled “The Role of Bank Using The ARDL Model: Evidence from Indonesia Using the ARDL Model”.

The author realizes that the completion of this thesis can be done with the guidance, support, and role of many parties. Therefore, the author owes her biggest gratitude towards:

1. The author’s family, who always provided her with endless love and support for author during her education from childhood till this day.
2. Ms. Sekar Utami Setiastuti, S.E., M.Sc., Ph.D., the author’s thesis supervisor, who always takes the time, energy, patience and thoughts to guide the author so that this thesis can be completed.
3. Mr. Gigih Fitrianto, S.E., M.Sc., Ph.D., and Mr. Muhammad Edhie Purnawan, M.A., Ph.D., as thesis examiners, providing invaluable input and for taking the time to assess the author’s work.
4. Riyan, Desta, Naila, Iqbal, for their constant support, encouragement, and willingness to listen, which have been a source of strength for the author during this entire process. The author is forever grateful for your friendship and for being there through it all.
5. The author’s classmates, whose camaraderie and intellectual exchange made this journey more enjoyable and enriching. To Vania, Abizar, Dzaky, Elaine, and Ronan, thank you for the long study sessions, the shared frustrations, and the moments of laughter that kept me going through the challenging times.

6. Colleagues majoring in Economics, for all the shared memories and late night dinners after class.

Finally, the author would like to thank herself for completing her bachelor's degree despite the many obstacles she experienced. While the author have done her best to ensure the accuracy and completeness of this research, any shortcomings are entirely her own. The author hope that this thesis will contribute to a better understanding of the role of bank lending in Indonesia's monetary transmission mechanism and serve as a foundation for further research in this area.