

ABSTRACT

This study aimed to investigate the case of Bank Century has seized the attention of Indonesian society. Bank Century case has even been discussed until the level of discussion of Inquiry by the House of Representatives of the Republic of Indonesia. This is a case of multi-dimensional because they have to understand from various scientific perspectives, such as the science of criminal law, banking, economics, and so forth.

In this study, data analysis was done descriptively and qualitatively, the data obtained are presented descriptively and analyzed in a qualitative (content analysis). The research data are classified according to the research problem formulation, systematized, and then analyzed for use as basis to conclude

The results of this analysis is the conclusion that whether or not the bailout process and the process of injecting the Short-Term Financing Facility and the Temporary Equity. Beyond these conclusions, through a series of descriptions of preconditions for the process to a conclusion taken by the Special Committee of Inquiry to the House of Representatives made its own conclusions about the lack of regulation so that this case be a summary. This case requires special handling and attention, in addition to multi-dimensional, this case is also very thick with political movements in Indonesia.

Keywords: Bank Century, Short Term Funding Facility, Bailout, Investment in the meantime, Qualitative \Descriptive