

ABSTRACT

The aim of this research is to identify the relation between parents and teachers' ways of educating and the level of children's self confidence. Data obtained through a questionnaire and proportional sampling technique. The subjects of this research are students of Catholic Giovanni High School of Kupang, NTT. From a total of 120 students, 70 are female and 50 are male. All students are third year students.

Research results show the following: (1) There is a very significant negative correlation between the way parents and teachers use to educate children/ students using violence and the level of child/ student self confidence ( $R = 0,322$ ;  $F = 6,775$ ;  $P = 0,002$ ). (2) Partially, there is a very significant negative correlation between the way parents use to educate children using violence and child self confidence ( $r = -0,262$ ;  $P = 0,004$ ). (3) Partially, there is a negative but not significant correlation between the way teachers use to educate students using violence and student self confidence ( $r = -0,092$ ;  $P = 0,321$ ).

Keywords: self confidence, way of educating, violence, child/ student, parent, teacher