In 2014 Indonesia has ratified C187 Promotional Framework Occupational for Safety and Health Convention 2006 into PERPRES No. 34/2014 concerning Ratification of Convention Concerning the Promotional Framework for Occupational Safety and Health / Convention 187, 2006 (Convention on the framework for improving occupational safety and health / Convention 187, 2006). This study discusses the implementation of the C187 convention into K3 legal practice in Indonesia for construction service companies in the Yogyakarta area. The purpose of this research is to analyze the reasons taken by Indonesia in ratifying convention 187. This research is an empirical normative research, conducted by enacting or implementing normative legal provisions in action on certain legal events in people's lives and interviews (in depth interviews). After the data was collected, an analysis was carried out and it was further shown that in general the reason for Indonesia to ratify the 187 convention was considering that Indonesia had long-established occupational safety and health regulations. In applying the content of article 3 of the C187 convention into OSH law in Indonesia. However, the implementation in the Yogyakarta Region is still lacking because there are still few local regulations governing the safety and health of construction workers.
